

Why does the F.C.C. not take a more aggressive role in enforcing their own regulations against lewd acts or the public air waves? As a father of three Sunday's Superbowl Halftime show was really the last thing that I could stomach. Every year things on the radio and on the network stations are getting worse and worse. Entertainers scream about freedom of speech will what about my right to raise my children with out immoral and obscene acts paraded across the screen.

Does anybody in the F.C.C. watch what is on television?
